7 November 1999

Dear Colleague,

Thank you very much for submitting to CHI 2000. We are very happy to tell you that your submission has been accepted for inclusion in the CHI Technical Program.

We received many more submissions than we had slots for, and had to make difficult choices and reject several submissions that were highly rated by some of their reviewers. The decisions as to which submissions to accept were made after careful review. Shortly, you will be receiving notes from the reviewers. These notes may have detailed comments on your submission that you will find useful when revising it for inclusion in the conference publications and for your presentation.

We hope that you will respond to these experts' suggestions for improvement. Feel free to contact us if you have any questions regarding your final contribution to the publications or for its presentation at the conference. Please note that the Author Kit Information you receive with this letter is also available on-line at the CHI 2000 web site.

As an accepted submission, the four-page text paper will be published in the CHI 2000 Conference Proceedings, and the video tape will be published in the CHI 2000 Video Proceedings. Included in this mailing are instructions for preparing and formatting these versions of your submission.

It is the culture of the ACM/SIGCHI Conference that authors with accepted submissions are expected to register and to attend the CHI Conference and to present their materials. Advance Programs will be mailed in the beginning of January. We urge you to register early to secure the pre-registration discount.

Thank you for your interest in CHI 2000. We are looking forward to meeting you in The Hague.

Sincerely,

Angela Sasse and Benjamin B. Bederson
